E-STATEMENT AUTHORIZATION

Electronic Delivery Disclosure Statement

Disclosures including the Electronic Fund Transfer Disclosure, Truth in Savings Disclosure, Privacy Policy Notice, Funds Availability and other disclosures delivered to you in the past may need updated from time to time and will be available to you in hard copy upon your request. Your consent to the electronic delivery of your statements will also be considered as consent to receive electronic delivery of future disclosures and notices. Statements, disclosures and notices may not be distributed in paper unless you contact us and request a paper version; a fee may apply for re-printing a statement that you authorized us to provide to you electronically. The paper version of statements, disclosures and notices will be provided to you upon your written request to receive such. Your consent applies to any Disclosure provided to you, any Change in Terms Notice, and any other Notice (including but not limited to overdraft notices, return item notices, dormant notices, opt in/opt out notices, address verification notices). In order to properly deliver your regular statements and any disclosures and notices from time to time, you must update us with any change in your e-mail address. You may withdraw your consent to receive electronic statements and/or disclosures and notices. This consent must be done so in writing.

In order to receive and view the disclosures, notices, and e-statements electronically, the following minimum computer hardware and software requirements must be met: Internet-capable device with access to an updated browser program at least 128-bit encryption (i.e. Microsoft Edge, Firefox, Google Chrome, etc.); Access to an updated version of Adobe Acrobat Reader 10.0 or greater which will allow you to view PDF files; Valid operating e-mail address and software to access e-mail; Printer capable of printing any communications that are emailed to you and/or made available on our website; Ability to visually display on your device any communications that are e-mailed to you and/or made available on our website; Sufficient memory and drive space capacity to download and/or save to your device documents and other communications e-mailed to you or made available on our website.

E-STATEMENT PROCESS

With receipt of the E-Statement Authorization, your account statement will be changed from paper format to electronic format. There are two options available to access your statements. (1) Each time your statement is produced you will be sent an e-mail to the above provided e-mail address indicating that your statement has been prepared and is ready. You will create your own user name and password through csiesafe.com to access the statement (establishing a secure user name and password limits viewing of the statement information by an unauthorized individual who may otherwise be able to view all other e-mail items) (2) Sign up to receive your statements electronically through Online Banking (an e-mail will be sent to you notifying you that your statements are ready and you will access them through Online Banking). Once you are receiving your statements electronically, you will no longer receive these items in paper format. Note: You may receive a test e-mail prior to receiving an actual statement. This will be sent to ensure the accuracy of the e-mail address provided.
